"Very educational"

4 of 5 stars Reviewed 31 May 2013

Was a rainy day and this was 2 mins from the hotel. Very reasonable price. Lots to see with big dinosaur displays. Friendly staff on hand to assist, very knowledgable staff, willing to share there expertise and knowledge.

"Must go if possible"

5 of 5 stars Reviewed 22 August 2013

If you or someone you know love dinosaurs this is worth a visit. It is not the biggest museum but they pack a lot in there. The love and passion the people have for their subject is clear by the amount of effort that has been put into the displays. The Museum App is brilliant and should be downloaded before arriving as it shows dinosaurs moving around wherever you point the camera on your iPhone. My two boys were awe struck watching a pterosaur flying over the pond opposite. There is an education room where kids can draw and play and the outside is well laid out. You do have to pay £3.50 parking but you get £2.50 taken off your admission price.

"Really impressive"

5 of 5 stars Reviewed 16 July 2013

As a teacher, I have been to many many museums and attractions for children - ranging from the truly awful to excellent. I took my 6.5 year old daughter here, not expecting much. It doesn't have a hefty admissions price so I wasn't expecting it to be as great as it was (hadn't read any of the reviews here). We spent about three hours here (on a beautifully warm sunny day!). She wanted to stay as she was having a wonderful time. The staff were really helpful and friendly. There were lots of things to do and although it isn't huge, there was a lot to see. The fossilised dino poo was also a big hit! We had fun dressing up in the costumes upstairs and we have a lot of 'work' that my daughter did whilst she was there. She is making a scrapbook for it all. A highly recommended visit - thank you.
