Contextual Summary

This information resource is for key stage 4 students who are studying Leisure and Tourism GCSE for any of the following boards: AQA, OCR, Edexcel, CCEA or WJEC, and those studying Travel & Tourism in Scotland for the national qualifications.

The resource is a brief introduction to the opportunities for students at the Robin Hill Country Park.

By prior arrangement, students are able to visit the park to study and investigate all aspects of a tourist attraction and how it operates as a business. There are opportunities to understand how the local attraction fits with the role of Wight the museum and the impact they have on the community.

Students, teachers or educational establishments will need to contact staff at Robin Hill Country Park to ensure a suitable visit plan is implemented.

Ability Levels

There is one version of this resource intended for key information only.

Key skills practised in this unit:

- ▶ Gaining an insight into a specific sector within the Leisure and Tourism industry, and understanding the nature of tourist attractions
- ▶ Understanding how attractions operate as businesses, employing marketing, data and other tools to ensure sustainability

Relationship to Curriculum

Relevant opportunities exist here for any students of Leisure & Tourism interested in using the park attraction as a case study, or as part of an investigation, in relation to the units specified by their exam board.

Enrichment Opportunities

Students have the opportunity to visit an attraction in the tourism sector, and to ask questions and undertake research to enhance their understanding and complete a case study. This is an integral part of the qualification.
